

6th Hole – 313m Mens & 305m Ladies – Par 4

This hole is more often associated with risk versus reward. The fairway is the most narrow of all the holes, with the majority of players electing to hit to the top of the first crest; however those who are striking the ball well from the tee, may elect to take driver and press for greater distance and an easier approach.

The sixth green is again guarded by a sizable bunker on the left hand side, so there is a definite advantage in setting up your second shot from the middle to right hand side of the fairway.
